reth for e-uer, we sinful creatures, trusting in thyne vnspeakeable goodnes and loue towards vs, do appere this morning before thy deuyne maiestye, most lowlye confessyng our manifold sinnes, and innume rable transgressyons of thy commaundements, and fatherly wil.
Against the onelye, agaynste the (O Lorde: haue we synned, therfore we confesse oure synnes, we knowledg our offences, we accuse our selues vnto the O mercyfull lord, & wyl not hyde our vnryghcoulues. We finde in oure selues nothinge but ignorance of thy wil disobedience, mistruste, doutefulnes in thy goodnes, and incredulitiy, hatred, and contẽpt of al spirytuall thynges, selfeloue, confydence in oure selues and feruẽt lustyng after carnal thynges of thys worlde. And this tree of oure corrupt nature, bringeth forth contynually in vs none other frute, but rotté, and vnsauery workes of the flesshe, in thoughtes wordes and doynges, vnto condemnacyon. Wherfore, we humbly beseche thy fatherlye goodnesse, euen for thy sonne Jesus Christes sake, whom thou hast set forth for a purchaser towarde vs of mercye, throughe faith in his bloude: to make oure hertes clene, take away our stonye hertes, & geue vnto vs a true and a lyuely faith, whiche ſhall woꝛcke contynually by loue, thꝛoughe Chꝛiſt. Haue mercy vpon vs, foꝛgeue vs out ſinnes, foꝛ thy ſonnes ſake, certifye our Conſcience of remiſſion of the ſame, by thy holye ſpirit, by whoſe operacion, ſo moꝛtifye in vs our old man, the whole body of ſinne, that we continually, dying vnto ſin may walcke in newneſſe of lyfe, to the gloꝛye of thy name, thꝛough Jeſus Chꝛiſte our Lꝛde. So be it.

☞ Then ſay thys .lxxxvi. Pſalme followyng treatably.

Owe downe thyne eare (O Lꝛde) and heare me, foꝛ I am poꝛe and in miſery.

O ꝓſerue my ſoule, foꝛ I am holye: my God ſaue thy ſeruaunte, that putteth hys trust in the.

But thou O lord God, art full of compassion, & mercy, longe suffering, plenteous in goodnes and truthe.

O turne the then vnto me, and haue mercye vpon me: geue thy strengthvnto the seruaunt, and helpe the son of thyn handmaid. Shewe some token vpon me for good, ỹ they which hate me may se it, & be ashamed, because thou Lord hast helped me, & cõforted me.

Glori be to the father, to the sõne and the holy ghost.
